Allianz Vantage Non-Standard PRSA (C)

This document is divided into sections to facilitate reading and understanding.

The title of each section indicates its respective content.

SECTION 1 - YOUR ALLIANZ VANTAGE NON-STANDARD PRSA (C)

A. Benefits

Your Personal Retirement Savings Account (PRSA) is designed to provide a tax efficient way for you to save for your retirement. It does not provide a guaranteed income at retirement, but rather allows you to build up a fund that you can use to help provide benefits, such as a regular income, in retirement.

You can normally start taking benefits from your PRSA when you are aged between 60 and 75. However, you may be able to take benefits earlier if, for example, you retire from employment at age 50 or over, or if you can no longer work because of a serious illness or disability. If your PRSA is an Additional Voluntary Contribution (AVC) PRSA, your chosen retirement date must match the Normal Retirement Age under your occupational pension scheme.

Your PRSA fund at retirement will consist of the total contributions paid by you (and your employer, if any) and the investment return earned on those contributions, less the charges deducted to cover the costs of us providing this PRSA to you.

For most PRSAs, at retirement, subject to Revenue limits, you can take a lump sum of 25% of the value of your PRSA (some of this can be tax-free as outlined in Section C below). For AVC PRSAs, the maximum lump sum you can take at retirement is subject to the limits that apply on your occupational pension scheme.

With the remainder, you can:

- Receive cash (subject to income tax)
- Buy an income for life (referred to as an Annuity)
- Transfer to an Approved Retirement Fund (referred to as an ARF)
- Leave invested in your PRSA and withdraw at a later date (this is called a Vested PRSA).

If you decide to leave the remaining funds invested in your PRSA, you will be required to withdraw a minimum amount each year from your PRSA depending on your age as follows:

- 4% if you are 60 years of age or over for the full tax year
- 5% if you are 70 years of age of older for the full tax year
- 6% if you have combined ARF and Vested PRSA assets of €2m or more and are 60 years of age or older for the full tax year.

You may transfer your PRSA to another provider or to an occupational pension scheme at any time. In this scenario, 100% of the value of your PRSA fund will be transferred, with no penalties applied.

If you die before you retire, your PRSA fund will be transferred to your estate. However, your heir(s) may have to pay inheritance tax or capital acquisitions tax before receiving it.

If the value of your PRSA falls below €650 and you haven't made contributions for at least two years, you can opt to cash in your policy with us. This refund is liable to income tax.

In addition, the Allianz Vantage Non-Standard PRSA (C) offers a range of investment strategies, designed to meet your changing needs over the lifetime of your PRSA.

The Default Investment Strategy (DIS), as required by Part X of the Pension Act 1990, is the investment strategy that will apply on your PRSA unless you make an alternative selection. The DIS is intended to meet the needs of a typical investor, who wishes to make contributions into a PRSA with the aim of building up a fund to provide income in retirement. Our approach is designed for customers who expect to generate income through an ARF, or by drawing down from their PRSA post-retirement. It may not be suitable for you if you are intending to purchase an annuity at retirement.

For investors who are far from retirement, the DIS follows an investment strategy weighted more heavily towards equities. With 15 or more years to retirement, your policy will combine funds from the range above with higher equity investment proportions to invest typically over 90% of its assets in equities, with the remainder in fixed interest and money market assets. Equities offer the best opportunity to generate the longer term growth needed to maximise your fund at retirement, and with a longer term time horizon, you should be less impacted by the shorter term volatility that can arise with equity investments.

However, as retirement approaches the strategy changes to help preserve any gains made. This is managed through two mechanisms – reducing the level of equity exposure to reduce shorter term volatility, and introducing a guarantee to further reduce downside risk. As your policy gets to within 15 years of retirement, the equity content starts to reduce.

In the eight years approaching retirement (the guarantee period), the DIS will invest in a combination of the Strategy Select 50 Fund and the Strategy Select 30 Fund, starting the guarantee period fully invested in the Strategy Select 50 Fund and switching a proportion of the holding each year into the Strategy Select 30 Fund so that at retirement it is fully invested in the Strategy Select 30 Fund. Over the guarantee period the equity content of your assets will reduce from c. 50% (at the start of the guarantee period) to c. 30% at retirement.

During the guarantee period, a guarantee will apply to the value of assets held in the Strategy Select 50 and Strategy Select 30 funds. The guarantee is based on the value of the assets in the Strategy Select 50 Fund at the start of the guarantee period (i.e. 8 years from retirement). One year later (i.e. 7 years from retirement), those assets will be worth at least 90% (the guarantee percentage) of the value at the commencement of the guarantee period (although this would need to be adjusted to reflect any withdrawals you make in the period). In addition, any contributions made in the year after the start of the guarantee period will be worth at least 90% of the value of the contribution (net of contribution charges) at the end of that year. Each subsequent year, the guarantee will roll over (e.g. the value of the holding in the Strategy Select 50 fund 6 years from retirement will be at least 90% of the equivalent value 7 years from retirement, before allowing for the impact of withdrawals or additional contributions during that year). A similar guarantee will apply for holdings in the Strategy Select 30 Fund, though the guarantee percentage in this case will be 93% (i.e. the value 6 years from retirement will be at least 93% of the value 7 years from retirement).

Eight years from retirement, and each subsequent anniversary of this point, the fund holdings will be switched in line with the target asset allocations of the DIS. In between these points, the asset mix may vary based on the relative performance of the two funds.

The path of the DIS is carried out through the use of an automatic switch mechanism managed by AGI that provides for the monthly rebalancing of the composition of the funds allocated to the policy prior to the guarantee period. Therefore, monthly automatic switches will be carried out in order to rebalance the weights of each fund towards finding the optimal allocation.

As described above, the allocation during the guarantee period will be reset each year leading up to retirement but no monthly switches will take place. The Company reserves, at any time, the possibility to expand the range of funds available to the investment.

In addition to the DIS, your Allianz Vantage Non-Standard PRSA (C) has a range of other investment strategies designed to meet your changing investment needs as retirement approaches. Three "Autopilot" strategies (low risk, medium risk and high risk) combine the Allianz Strategy Select Funds to provide access to growth assets, while incorporating a guarantee mechanism similar to that applying for the final eight years of the DIS. Alternatively, three "Lifecycle" investment strategies (Balanced, Dynamic and Opportunity) provide an evolving asset split that changes to meet your needs as retirement approaches. The Lifecycle Strategies do not incorporate guarantees. Each strategy capitalizes on the investment expertise of AGI to deliver investment solutions that meet the changing needs of PRSA customers as you save for retirement.

For those not wishing to opt for a defined investment strategy, there is the option to choose to invest in your own strategy by combining the available funds to meet your needs. Further details on the investment strategies outlined above, and on each fund available on your PRSA, are available from your Intermediary.

C. Tax

This section provides a summary of taxation implications based on our understanding of the current legislation. However, we recommend that each customer discusses their individual tax position with their financial advisor.

Contributions

Income tax relief is available on your contributions into your PRSA. The maximum amount of tax relief you may be able to get depends on your age and your earnings as per the table below:

Age	Maximum contribution for which tax relief is available
Under 30	The lower of 15% of net relevant earnings and €17,250
30-39	The lower of 20% of net relevant earnings and €23,000
40-49	The lower of 25% of net relevant earnings and €28,750
50-54	The lower of 30% of net relevant earnings and €34,500

55-59	The lower of 35% of net relevant earnings and €40,250
60 and over	The lower of 40% of net relevant earnings and €46,000

Investment Returns
Under current legislation, there is no tax on income or capital gains within your PRSA fund.

Benefit Payments
At retirement, you can take a cash lump sum of up to 25% of your PRSA fund. The first €200,000 can typically be tax-free. The next €300,000 is taxed at 20% while the remainder is subject to income tax.

Subsequent to this, all income or withdrawals from your PRSA will be treated as income and subject to income tax.

On death, the remaining value of your PRSA will be paid to your estate, with inheritance tax or capital acquisitions tax applying depending on your individual circumstances.

D. Risk

Investments
The investment return on this policy is not guaranteed. The rate assumed in the illustration is a reasonable long-term assumption given past performance but the past is no guarantee of future returns. It is worth noting that short-term investment returns can be quite volatile depending on the proportion of investments exposed to equity markets in particular.

Accessing funds
In most cases, current legislation prevents people from accessing their pension funds before they reach age 60. There are some exceptions to this rule (e.g. you may be allowed access to your retirement fund if you need to retire before age 60 as a result of ill health). Therefore, you should not consider investing any monies in a PRSA that you may need in the short-term. Instead, you should be satisfied that the long-term nature of this commitment is consistent with your needs, resources and individual circumstances before entering into a PRSA contract.

Reducing contributions
The total amount of contributions you make into the PRSA is one of the key factors that determines the level of benefits you will be able to enjoy in retirement. While you can stop contributing to this PRSA at any time, you should be aware that if you do not maintain your regular contributions as outlined in this illustration, your projected maturity value will also have a lower value.

SECTION 2 - PROJECTED BENEFITS

The benefits that will emerge from your PRSA will depend, in particular, on the level of your contributions, how long you pay those contributions and the investment return achieved. The table below illustrates the projected benefits that might be obtained from this PRSA contract.

The illustration assumes a term of 20 years, and reflects an initial single contribution of €50,000 and 240 monthly contributions of €500 each. All contributions are assumed to be invested in the DIS.

We do not have sufficient information to produce a certificate that reflects your specific circumstances. Consequently, the level of contributions and projected benefits shown here may be misleading. If you accept the terms of this contract, we will subsequently send you a Statement of Reasonable Projection that will reflect your specific circumstances.

You will then have 30 days in which to cancel the contract if you wish.

Table of Benefits:

Year	Total amount of contributions into the PRSA contract to date	Projected investment growth to date	Projected PRSA contract value if no account is taken of applicable charges to date	Projected PRSA contract value if account is taken of applicable charges to date
1	56,000	3,193	59,193	58,512
2	62,000	6,938	68,938	67,425
3	68,000	11,268	79,268	76,759
4	74,000	16,217	90,217	86,534

15	140,000	120,746	260,746	223,472

01/07/2026

Year of Maturity	170,000	202,733	372,733	300,875

IMPORTANT

THE PROJECTIONS SHOWN ABOVE MAKE NO ALLOWANCE FOR THE EFFECT OF INFLATION WHICH WILL REDUCE THE VALUE OF THE PROJECTED BENEFITS. THE PROJECTED MATURITY VALUE OF €300,875 SHOWN IN THE TABLE IS WORTH €166,597 IN TERMS OF CURRENT PRICES. THIS MATURITY VALUE COULD PURCHASE A RETIREMENT INCOME FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE STARTING FROM THAT DATE OF €624 PER MONTH IN TERMS OF CURRENT PRICES.

THESE ILLUSTRATIONS ASSUME AN INVESTMENT RETURN BEFORE RETIREMENT OF 5.72% PER ANNUM AND INFLATION OF 3% PER ANNUM. THESE RATES ARE FOR ILLUSTRATION PURPOSES ONLY AND ARE NOT GUARANTEED.

ACTUAL INVESTMENT GROWTH WILL DEPEND ON THE PERFORMANCE OF THE UNDERLYING FUNDS AND MAY BE MORE OR LESS THAN ILLUSTRATED.

The assumed investment return shown above is an average rate of return over the term of your plan, taking account of expected changes in the asset mix over time.

The figures in the table above were prepared in line with the Personal Retirement Savings Accounts (Disclosure) Regulations 2002 and Actuarial Standard of Practice ASP PRSA-2 of the Society of Actuaries in Ireland.

The assumed retirement income is based on a single life annuity with 2% indexation, a 5-year guarantee period and payable monthly in advance for the duration of your life. The actual annuity rate will depend on the selection of dependent's pension, guaranteed period, escalation rate as well as the prevailing interest rates when the annuity is purchased.

Where the term to retirement is greater than five years, the annuity rate used is a long term average rate. Where the term to retirement is less than 5 years current market annuity rates have been used to calculate retirement benefits.

The actual annuity rate available at retirement may differ from the annuity rate used in the illustration. Furthermore, different annuity options can be chosen at retirement.

The illustration above is a generic illustration reflecting a typical PRSA investor. If your PRSA is a Vested PRSA, your circumstances will be very different from those outlined in the table above and you should discuss the implications of this with your financial advisor.

SECTION 3 - WARNINGS

It is important to make adequate provision for retirement. The State Pension (Contributory) payable under the Social Welfare (Consolidation) Act, 2005, to a single person who is qualified to receive the maximum rate amounts to €15,564 per year and equates to 30% of the latest yearly figure for gross average earnings as published by the Central Statistics Office for all industrial workers in all industries.

The value of your assets, and accordingly, the level of your benefits will depend on the value of the underlying investments of the PRSA and the income that they earn. These values are not guaranteed, and may fall from time to time, as well as rise.

This PRSA is intended to provide benefits over the duration of your life from retirement, and it should be viewed as a long-term investment.

It is recommended that you seek professional financial advice about the nature of this PRSA before signing the PRSA contract.

The charges are deducted on a monthly basis either directly from your PRSA or indirectly from the funds in which your PRSA is invested.

The Total Fund-based charge applicable for each fund is shown below with and without the guarantee charge which only applies where the guarantee option has been selected or in a strategy that incorporates a guarantee (the DIS or the three AutoPilot strategies).

For this sample contract, the total effect of these charges on the benefits at maturity projected above is equivalent to a single charge of 1.51% per annum of the assets held under the contract.

The Total Fund-based Charge in the table above is made up of the Annual Management Charge and the Fund Management Charge. As the Fund Management Charge on certain funds may vary in the future, we have included a range for the Total Fund-based Charge for those funds. The projections in Sections 2 and 4 above are based on the maximum Total Fund-based Charge for each fund.

SECTION 6 - COOLING-OFF PERIOD

This contract is not enforceable until a period of 30 days has elapsed from the date on which you are given a Statement of Reasonable Projection and you may cancel this contract at any time during that period. `

If you decide to cancel a single contribution or transfer payment within the cooling-off period, a deduction will be made to your contribution to cover any fall in value between the time your contribution or transfer payment was invested and the time the instruction to cancel is sent to us.
